

Job Description and Expected Profile

- Systemic research on the TEH network and its members to expand and further develop our ongoing knowledge base on the topics of participatory governance, impact, community development
- Community research through surveys, interviewing members and cultural actors, methodologically documenting survey results, evaluation of survey, collecting information and researching
- Support project managers in structuring the information into our existing knowledge base
- Work with and support the Capacity Building Manager and the Community Manager
- Masters' degree in sociology, political sciences, social sciences, or similar
- Experience with social science research
- Passion for arts & culture and community development and grassroots movements

Language Skills

- Fluent knowledge of English

Proposed Time for the NGO Mobility Program

- April-June 2020 (3 months)

The program will be implemented in Lund, Sweden.